THANKSGIVING IS FIXED BY HARDING FOR NOVEMBER 30

Calls All America To Praise God For His Bounty

PEACE PROGRESS

Nation Owes Great Debt Of Gratitude For Prosperity

(China Press Service)

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Harding in a speech before the House of Representatives declared November 30 as Thanksgiving Day. He declared:

"Our condition as compared with European nations presents much to justify the sincerest testimony of nationwide gratitude. I recommend the people to gather their families at altars of worship and render thanks to God for the bounties they have enjoyed and to petition Him that these may be continued during the year which is before us.

"Though we have passed through the shadow of the hard consequences of a great conflict, our country has been at peace, and has been able to contribute towards the maintenance and perpetuation of peace in the world.

"We have seen the race of mankind make gratifying progress on the way to permanent peace, order, and restored confidence in its high destiny. And we owe a prayer of gratitude to Him who has made this possible."

ULTIMATUM TO B.A.T. STRIKERS EXPIRES TODAY

Unless Workers Return This Morning Lock-Out Is Effective

Unless the striking employes of the two British Cigarette Company factories in Pootung and the one in Dixwell Road return to work at 8 o'clock this morning they will be locked out by the company and new employes will be hired to take their places, according to the ultimatum delivered from the B.A.T. offices on Tuesday.

The strike, which has been in progress for ten days and caused three of the tobacco company's factories to close down, began as a sympathetic movement with the strike of workers in an adjoining Pootung mill, but later developed into an organised demand for higher wages, better working conditions and certain changes. The company made several tentative offers and concessions to the strikers which to date have not been accepted.

The company's last offer of a settlement was made on Tuesday and several concessions to the strikers were made but the general increase in pay was refused. At the same time the company delivered an ultimatum that unless the workers returned to the factories today they could consider themselves discharged.

No trouble is expected at the factories today but it is understood that the Chinese authorities have detailed extra police to the factory zone as a precaution.

WOMEN STRIKERS CHARGED

Four Chinese women, characterised as strike leaders in connection with the walk-out of women workers at the small B.A.T. factory at 10 Dixwell Road, were charged at the Mixed Court yesterday morning and were discharged with a caution after considerable testimony had been taken.

Police witnesses, including Inspector Mackenzie and Detective Sergeant Tinkler, and Mr. T. C. Kirby, manager of the factory, stated that the women were active in the agitation among the workers. Two of the defendants, Mr. Kirby said, did most of the haranguing after the female employes, 140 in number, quit work, demanding an increase in pay.

Two other women appeared in the Mixed Court also yesterday charged with creating a disturbance. It was stated that they led a rush of women strikers at the Harbin Road police station Monday afternoon after the four other women had been arrested. They were fined $2 each, with the alternative of two days' imprisonment.

American Bankers Will Refuse To Help China Get Loan, Say Japanese

Uncompromising Attitude May Lead British Financiers To Shun Participation

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Nov. 14.—According to today's Hochi, the attitude of the American bankers' group towards the new Consortium, which is to advance to China a sum of $18,000,000 out of the total of $100,000,000 with the object of relieving the financial difficulties of the Chinese Government, has now been ascertained.

The American bankers' group has unofficially notified the representatives of the Japanese and the British bankers' groups concerned to the effect that the present time is not opportune for accommodating a loan to China in view of the existing state of affairs in that country.

Should the request of the Chinese Government be complied with by the new Consortium, the American bankers say, the result will be that only Chinese militarists will be enriched, thereby furthering the personal strife among them.

Considering also the actual state of the money market in the United States and the sentiment towards China of the American people in general since the Washington Conference, the raising of a public loan to be furnished to China at this juncture is entirely hopeless. Therefore the American bankers' group is not in a position to meet the Chinese Government's demand for a loan.

In consequence of this strong stand, the British bankers' group is said to have suddenly changed its mind and is now in communication with the Japanese bankers' group, asking the latter's intention. Judging from the foregoing, Japanese financiers believe that the British bankers' group has also given up the idea of complying with the request of the Chinese Government.

Chinese Advisors Hosts To Municipal Council

International co-operation to make Shanghai a greater and more prosperous city was the keynote of speech delivered by Mr. Y. S. Ziar, chairman of the Chinese Advisory Committee at a dinner last night in honor of members of the Shanghai Municipal Council and the heads of the Municipal departments. The dinner, which was in return for the hospitality shown the committee by the Council at a recent dinner and a houseboat trip to Pingchiao, Hangchow, was held at the Palace Hotel. A number of prominent Chinese were also guests at the party.

Mr. H. G. Simms, chairman of the Council, in response to the toast, emphasized the importance of security for the Municipality while expressing his sympathy towards the aspirations of the Chinese residents here. He assured his hosts that the Council would be ready to give the Chinese their due share of responsibility in municipal affairs, as he had occasion to say on a former occasion, provided the same security that had been prevailing under foreign administration was assured. He also pointed out that the Council could not act in any way it pleased in this regard, as there are higher authorities above it.

The text of Mr. Ziar's speech follows:

"Mr. Simms and gentlemen: speaking on behalf of the Chinese Advisory Committee, I welcome you to this dinner. This evening the Chinese community in Shanghai is fairly represented in this room. We have here the Chinese of the old school and the Chinese of the younger generation. Some of our foreign guests here have perhaps spent 15 or 25 years in China, while others are residents in this city of comparatively later dates. But we are all fellow citizens of a great growing city.

"We all have a common future before us, we are all like a great and complicated machine—the soundness or otherwise of a part affects the general efficiency of the whole. Up to the present, however, the burden of looking after this great machinery has been entirely on our foreign friends. The reasons are many. In the early history of this treaty port, the Chinese merchants who traded and resided here were mostly, or even exclusively, of the poor class. They were in a sense adventurers, they came to this muddy swamp to make fortunes so as to retire to their native districts where they came from and, where they hoped to build their paradise. So, the matter of the government of the city did not concern them.

"At present, we have different classes of people here. We see great and luxurious residences built by them in this port. We see up-to-date mills and factories employing hundreds of hands. Shanghai is their permanent home. Shanghai is the center of their varied activities. They have not only wealth, they have also knowledge. Some of them are highly trained even in business or professions, while others have their children educated in the best universities of the world to assist them. They are now awakened to the sense of their duties and responsibilities of the government of this great city. Even the workmen have organised themselves and before long they will claim a share in the Municipal affairs. Gentlemen, we are living in a different age and with a different people. If we are farseeing, we can lead the wealth, knowledge and energy of the Chinese community to a channel which brings forth the fruit-bearing of this international community. If we are reasonable and just to each other, there is a great field before us in which Chinese energy and wealth can contribute to no small extent towards the fruit of friendly co-operation of this international community and in which we all gather our harvest.

"I am aware that the Municipal Council had handled various problems with singular ability. I have no doubt the Council will welcome Chinese co-operation in its varied responsibilities. Your residence in China and your contact with the Chinese people, no doubt, inform you that we Chinese are a reasonable people. If others are just to us, we will be generous to them. But we are also born bargainers. Where there is a hard bargain to make, we love nothing so well. I have no doubt that the foreign communities in Shanghai are also reasonable peoples and are ready to meet the just aspiration of the Chinese people in Shanghai. I have no doubt that all foreign friends are fully aware of the changes that become necessary in the changed time and under the changed circumstances. I am confident that by mutual goodwill, by friendly co-operation, by adopting the method of giving and taking and by re-adjusting one's position to meet the reasonable desires of others, Shanghai will become a greater Shanghai, a more prosperous Shanghai and a happier Shanghai. I am confident that such a Shanghai is in no better hands than those of the members of the Shanghai Municipal Council. Gentlemen, let us drink to their health."

Among the Chinese present were Mr. Shen Tso-shu, president of the Chinese Bankers' Association; Marquis Li Wei-hou, chairman of the board of directors of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Co., Ltd.; Mr. Yuan Li-tung, manager of the Ningpo-Shaoshing Steam Navigation Co., Ltd.; Fan Tsiao-peh, vice-chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese delegate to the Paris Peace Conference and Mr. Chung Meng-yew, former managing director of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

McKINLEY HAS LARGEST CARGO OUT OF SEATTLE

Liner In With Heavy Mail From America; Frawley Company Arrives

Bringing the largest cargo that ever left Seattle on an American ship, the President McKinley of the Admiral Oriental line arrived yesterday morning.

When 1,500 miles out of Seattle two S. O. S. calls were received from the Japanese freighter Tomi Maru which the McKinley passed two days out of Seattle. Immediately following the S. O. S. calls, a press dispatch was received stating that the vessel had lost her rudder and was making heavy weather in a gale with insufficient food on board for her crew.

Later dispatches announced that the S.S. Yoshita Maru and the Oridomo Maru were standing by to render assistance and that the Empress of Russia, which was in the immediate vicinity, was speeding to the rescue. The following day the grand was reported that repairs had been effected and that she was carrying on under her own steam and would make port without assistance.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday was Mr. Carl Seitz who returned to Shanghai after a brief business trip home. Other Shanghai arrivals included the members of the Frawley Players who will play a three weeks engagement at the Olympic theater opening tomorrow evening with the New York success "The Gold Diggers," featuring Miss Adele Blood.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Engstrom, old residents of Shanghai, returned after making a four months combined business and pleasure trip through the United States. Mr. Engstrom is associated with the local office of the Texas Oil Company.

Miss Gretchen Fitkin, whose feature stories in the North China Daily News are well known to Shanghai readers, arrived after a trip around the world.

Mr. Frederick Gattis, a representative of the Western Dry Goods Comapny of Seattle, is making a tour of the Far East in behalf of his company and expects to spend considerable time in Shanghai.

Mr. Alexander Nicholson of Fearon and Brown, wholesale and retail furriers of New York City, has come to China to buy skins for his company. Messrs. R. J. Moore and N. G. Wood, members of the local office of the Standard Oil Company, returned after four months leave of absence.

Rev. and Mrs. Thomas W. Kennington of the American Advent Society is returning to his post at Choahsien, where he has been stationed for the past seven years. He was accompanied by his five children.

Mr. Leo Mathews, the popular purser, made his first trip on the President McKinley, relieving Mr. Royes who remained in Seattle. Mr. Mathews' genial personality contributed greatly to the enjoyment and comfort of the passengers as well as his sparkling wit as manifested in his snappy handling of wireless dispatches published daily in "The McKinley Morning Kick," whose slogan reads "Lot of News Hardly Fit To Print."

The next mail from the States following the McKinley is due on the steamer China this morning. The vessel comes from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japan ports and is to dock at the China Merchants Lower Wharf about 7:30 o'clock. It has on board 21 cabin passengers, 91 bags of mail, 1,032 tons of cargo and besides, 380 bars of silver bullion for this port and

"100 Percent Membership" Expected In Red Cross Drive

Yesterday, the first day of the American Red Cross drive for new members in Shanghai, brought results which the campaign officials regarded as highly satisfactory.

The interest displayed by the heads of American firms here was especially gratifying to those directing the enlistment effort. During yesterday the workers secured the promises of many of the chiefs of local concerns to lend their heartiest support toward obtaining "100 percent membership" among their staffs.

The first firm to reach the "century mark" in point of membership was the Texas Company—meaning that every American employe of the firm here became a Red Cross member. Other firms which reached that plane on the first day of the drive were Sun Maid Raisin Growers, the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and Carl Crow, Inc. It is anticipated that a number of other business houses will attain to the 100 percent distinction today.

The annual membership fee in the American Red Cross is $2. This is the only class of membership that is being solicited in the present drive, as the need of the A. R. C. at present is not for funds but for renewed membership.

The headquarters of the drive is at 302 Robert Dollar Building. Membership certificates can be secured at the following addresses:

Pacific Mail S. S. Co.
Chinese-American Publishing Co.
American-Oriental Bank.
The Jade Tree.
Palace Hotel.
Astor House Hotel.

FORMAL CHARGE PLACED AGAINST DR. F. C. TONG

Nantao Court Takes Up Case In Connection With Girl's Suicide

A preliminary hearing in the case of F. C. Tong, part owner of the Shanghai Journal of Commerce implicated in the suicide of Miss Zih Zang-tseng, young mailing clerk employed by the newspaper, who took her life by strangling herself with a cord, took place in the Nantao procurate yesterday morning. After the formal reading of the petition filed by the family of the deceased when the mother of Miss Zih was examined, the case was remanded for further hearing, pending the recovery from illness of the brother of the deceased.

Mr. Tong was ordered held and no bail has yet been granted, although several friends of the accused have attempted to obtain his release by offering security.

An indignation meeting was held last night by members of the Tongshan Guild, of which the family of the deceased is a member, to protest against the action of certain friends of Tong to obtain bail for him. A resolution was passed recommending that the procurate in Nantao be requested to hold Tong without bail pending the decision of the case. The meeting was held at the Huai Ren Shai, Pingchiao Road, and was attended by more than 200 Tongshan people.

A communication contending that Tong was wrongfully arrested by the Chinese authorities has been sent to the Senior Consul, Comm. De Rossi, Italian Consul-General. The message maintains that Tong was arrested on a Municipal road of the International Settlement.

Chinese police authorities, however, are positive that their arrest of Tong was in accordance with law and that they resorted to no trickery in apprehending the person. They point out that Tong's house opens into the Kung Li Lee alleyway, which is patrolled by Chinese police, and that it was inside the alleyway in front the door of his own house that Tong was arrested.

According to the Chinese police, Tong had been quite aware of the action being taken by the Chapei authorities. He had, the police said, employed a bodyguard to protest him since a warrant was issued for his arrest. A strong resistance was put up by both Tong and his bodyguard, a man named Tsung when the officers tried to lay their hands on the former. Tsung has been lodged in the Nantao jail for interference

Bonar Law Ill; Lloyd George Is Touring In Wales

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 13.—Mr. Bonar Law has arrived in Glasgow. He is looking very ill.

Mr. Lloyd George continued his tour in Wales today, speaking at Penygroes, Carnarvon, Colway Bay, Rhyl and other places. Referring to the Liberal opposition to the National Liberal at West Denbigh he said that 35 National Liberals throughout the country were being similarly attacked. This miserable vendetta would merely result in the loss of progressive seats to reactionaries.

TURK CRISIS MAY INVOLVE U.S., PERSHING TELLS NATION

Declares Victory Of Moslem Menace To World

TENSION RELAXED

France Will Join In Forceful Measures, Says Poincare

(China Press Service)

New York, November 13.—General Pershing in an address to the Nation Civic Federation stated that there is great danger of America becoming involved in the near Eastern conflict unless something is done immediately.

He declared that the Turkish victory over the Greeks constitutes a menace to all neutral nations and announced his regret that Lloyd George had been displaced in England. He stated boldly that the former premier was the one and only man who could handle the situation efficiently and peaceably.

The conditions existant in Turkey and Greece now, is one fraught with danger of international complications. The Turks are openly molesting any and all resident neutrals, and have on several occasions gone so far as to incarcerate foreigners and have even executed two Europeans.

Flogging for alleged offenses of a minor character against Turkish law, has been common. The latest outrage has been the severance of all communication with the outside world when the Turks cut the telegraph and cable lines.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 14.—The difference between the British and French views as to whether an Allied meeting is desirable before the Lausanne Conference and especially the difficulties in the way of arranging the venue have apparently been overcome.

"It was authoritatively learned late last night that there was a marked relaxation of tension in consequence of a satisfactory conversation between Lord Hardinge, the British Ambassador, and M. Poincare.

The latter agreed to meet Lord Curzon and gave him assurance of the community of British and French views on the Near East question.

France expressed her readiness to associate herself in the employment of force if the Kemalists violated the Mudania Agreement. It is expected that Lord Curzon will confer with M. Poincare on Saturday before going to Lausanne.

Rome, November 13.—The Italian Delegation to the Lausanne Conference will be headed by Marquis Garroni, the Italian High Commissioner at Constantinople, and Signor Montagna, the Italian Minister to Greece.

CONSULS EXPELLED

Constantinople, Nov. 14.—The French Consuls at Mersina and Adama, who were appointed under the Franco-Kemalist Pact to ensure the protection of the Christian minorities, have arrived at Constantinople, having been expelled. This follows on the expulsion of the French Consul at Brusa last week.

Leading French business men met yesterday at the French Embassy and drew up a strong memorial against the present Turkish economic policy.

The Turkish Customs have decided to collect the full import duty on all goods which are in warehouses awaiting transshipment.

(French Wireless)

Paris, November 13.—Ismet Pasha has summoned to Lausanne the Angora representatives at Paris and Rome.

The date of the opening of the Lausanne Conference is confirmed as November 20.

SITUATION EXPLOSIVE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 13.—The situation at Constantinople is authoritatively described as very explosive. Martial law has not yet been declared but this is not owing to any differences among the Allies.

The French and Italian Governments have authorised their High Commissioners to join the British High Commissioner in declaring a state of siege or in taking any necessary common action.

No arrangements have been reached for any personal prelithat the fullest exchange of views is necessary in order to avoid a further postponement of the opening of the Lausanne Conference.

It is authoritatively stated that the allegation that there is a French and British controversy with regard to the Near East is unfounded. It is pointed out that events in the past three months have tended very much to strengthen Allied unity, for example, the Kemalist desecration of the French cemetery at Smyrna, destruction of French property in Asia Minor and Angora's demand for a revision of the Syrian frontier.

OPPOSE MARTIAL LAW

Paris, Nov. 13.—It is semi-officially stated that M. Poincare is prepared to meet Earl Curzon and Signor Mussolini at Lausanne or elsewhere at the end of the week and he is all the more willing to do so because it is believed in Paris that the Allies have already agreed upon the terms of a new Peace Treaty with Turkey.

With regard to the alleged delay in authorising General Pelle to associate himself with the possible proclamation of martial law it is stated that the French Government telegraphed its authorisation on November 7, but the telegram only arrived at Constantinople on the evening of November 9 owing to cable interruption.

Martial law has not been proclaimed. General Sir Charles Harington, General Charpy and General Mobelli are opposed to it.

The French Government will not tolerate the Turks violating the Mudania Convention or attacking the Allied troops in the neutral zone.

Rome, Nov. 13.—A telegram from Constantinople states that the proposal to proclaim martial law was strongly opposed at a conference of the Allied Generals on the ground that it would compel the Allies to take over all the public services: and thus risk very serious incidents.

The High Commissioners telegraphed to their Governments asking for instructions but not favoring martial law which would entail the despatch of large reinforcements.

The Allies have also considered the suggestion to provide the Sultan with an Allied guard but up to the present nothing has been decided.

TURKS UNREASONABLE

Constantinople Nov. 10.—The situation seems to be summed up in the words of a very competent authority "we must mobilise or get out."

Everywhere it is felt that the past discussions have been mere talk and are all wasted. The Allies seem to have been stultifying themselves. It is argued that they must either take strong action, fully mindful of the possible grave consequences, or withdraw. Otherwise incident will follow incident and crisis will succeed crisis until the cup of their humiliation is filled.

The Turks are no longer reasonable and it is believed that they can be convinced only by a display of force. They are indeed at present determined to tread continually on the Allies' corns in an endeavor to make the position of the latter here impossible.

"DELAY IS DANGEROUS"

Paris, Nov. 13.—Interviewed by a representative of the Matin while en route to Lausanne Ismet Pasha declared that the postponement of the Lausanne Conference was dangerous for it was not easy to maintain the whole people and the whole army in the state of uncertainty produced by the armistice.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Nov. 13.—Ismet Pasha, chief of the Turkish delegation to the Lausanne Conference who has arrived at Lausanne, declared to a press representative that the majority of the decisions attributed to the Angora Government concerning French schools and banks had never been made.

BELGIANS INVITED

Paris, Nov. 13.—The French, British and Italian Governments have made known in Brussels that in accordance with the demand of M. Theunis Belgium had been invited to take part in the Lausanne Conference.

M. Theunis and Jaspar will confer with M. Poincare at Paris on Saturday next on the subject of the approaching Conference at Brussels.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The Temps emphasises that France does not plan for a rupture of the Entente: "We are with those who wish for peace in the near East as in Europe, with those who want the Entente Cordiale as a guarantee of peace."

Paris, Nov. 13.—The French colony at Brussa being anxious and desiring to be repatriated the Turks declare that they will take measures to put an end to the causes of complaint. A consul has been sent to Mudania to investigate the situation.

Frawley Company Here; Open With 'Gold Diggers' At Olympic Tomorrow

T. Daniel Pleased At Greeting Accorded His Groupe; Miss Adele Blood Looks For Big Season Here

T. Daniel Frawley and Miss Adele Blood with eleven members of their company arrived in Shanghai yesterday morning on the President McKinley, of the Admiral Oriental Line, from Kobe.

Mr. Frawley said that he felt like coming home upon arriving here since his frequent appearances have endeared him to a large theater going public here.

"It is hard for me to remember sometimes where my home lies," said Mr. Frawley, coming down the gangplang yesterday, "when I see all these familiar faces. I used to think that San Francisco was 'homeside,' but this great demonstration of affection has touched me more than any homecoming ever did."

Miss Blood, who accompanied Mr. Frawley, expressed her great joy in arriving in Shanghai and at the great reception accorded to her personally. Although Miss Blood has never appeared on the Shanghai stage she is well known having appeared in several moving pictures here, as well as being a visitor on several occasions.

She wore a black draped peau de sole draped from the right shoulder and falling in loose folds about her slim dainty ankles, a tweed travelling coat trimmed with fur and a saucy close fitting "chapeau de voyage" of dark blue velvet.

She carried several large bouquets of roses and wore a corsage composed of parma violets the gifts from many admirers.

"It just seems too wonderful to be back in dear old Shanghai and to receive such a wonderful welcome," said Miss Blood on her arrival. "I am absolutely sure if the present demonstration is any criterion that our season in Shanghai will eclipse both that of Honolulu and Japan when we were forced to hang the S.R.O. sign out nearly every night."

Closely following Miss Blood was wee Dawn Hope aged all of three and one half years and carrying Fifi, her famous Belgian doll, in one arm and a huge "Teddy Bear" in the other. Miss Hope, if you please, is the youngest member of the Frawley company and according to passengers on the President McKinley completely captivated everyone on board.

Other members of the Frawley company include Miss Betty Earnicoat, Miss Helen Barnes, Miss Florence Roberts, Miss Dorris Kemper, Miss Mary Adams and Messrs. Herbert Light, Bernard Nodell, Lester Sybe, Gordon Davis, Alden McClasky, Henry E. Dougherty (Manager) and Carl H. Grogory the cameraman, who is filming two scripts in which the action takes place in many oriental locales.

The Frawley Company will open tomorrow evening at the Olympic theater with the Gold Diggers, one of Avery Hopwood's masterpieces of comedy in which Miss Blood as Jerry Lamar shows remarkable characterisation.

The Company will open Thursday with the 'Gold Diggers,' one of Avey Hapggods' masterpieces of comedy, in which Miss Blood as Jerry Lamar, shows remarkable ability.

The play which pictures the ups and downs of life experienced by the New York Chorus girl, is a continuous source of merriment and virtually scintillates with brilliant wit and humor. Added to its pleasing comedy, there is a serious strain which runs through the entire play holding one intensely interested and at times even worried as to the outcome of the apparently inextricable tangles which Madamoiselle La Chorus gets herself, through her willingness to allow some gentleman of unlimited means show her a good time.

Miss Blood is fortunate in having a company of unusual ability to support her. Miss Betty Barnicort (Mrs. Ledell) as Mabel Munroe, Miss Dorris Kemper as Violet Dayne, Miss Helen Barnes as one of the chorus, and Miss Florence Roberts in two roles all display remarkable skill in the interpretation of their parts, and at times through their own talent even adding to the comedy of the story.

Mr. Bernard Nedell as Stephen Lee, a crusty old uncle, Herbert Light, the dignified legal adviser Lester Sybe, the lovesick nephew and Mr. McClaskie, stricken with Jerry Lamar's beauty, will demonstrate that they are actors of considerable versatility.

The sense of existence is the greatest happiness.

"PRICELESS"
is a popular way of describing anything which has proved to be of exceptional value, and may therefore be employed to describe that old and favourite preparation—Beecham's Pills. The ever-increasing army of men and women who have experience of this excellent medicine generally use some such phrase as "priceless" or "Worth a guinea a box" when speaking of Beecham's Pills. This is certainly high praise. But it is well-merited. Beecham's Pills have proved, times out of number, to be a "priceless" preparation in the treatment of digestive ailments. They bring relief; they safeguard the health; they effect remarkable cures. All who suffer in any way from biliousness, sick headache, constipation, impaired appetite, and the resulting loss of energy and want of tone should take

HANGCHOW FIRE TESTED METTLE OF THE FIREMEN

Fought Flames In Alleys So Narrow Other Methods Were Useless

(China Press Correspondence)

Hangchow, Nov. 12.—Hangchow was visited last night by the largest fire it has had for many years. It began in a small shop whose occupants were preparing and cooking the evening meal on a charcoal stove. The shop was on the north and south street on which the electric light plan is situated, about two blocks from the city railway station.

The fire spread quickly and was soon beyond control. Fortunately the mud fire walls in the blocks on each side of the street resisted successfully what in the beginning had every appearance of a fire that would sweep across the Southeast section of the city. So it was confined largely to two blocks along the street. It broke over the central fire wall in one or two places, but was kept under control by the firemen.

The scene presented by the thousands of spectators, each with their fire company lantern on the end of a pole, and incidentally their receipt for dues prepaid to the fire companies for protection together with the firemen and their obsolete fighting machinery, squads of coolie water carriers, each preceded and followed by a runner beating gongs to clear the way, was a spectacular one.

Many of the firemen had substituted for the regulation brass helmet one made of woven bamboo, though like the original in shape. Water was brought from the rear by canal and dumped in to large wooden tubs which were supplied with pumps and hose.

Fitfully the firemen would pump until the water was exhausted from their tub, then nonchalantly smoking their cigarettes, they would maintain their balance on top of the pump until the return of the water carriers with another supply.

Then the head pumper would hold his thump over the nozzle of the hose until the water pressure would break his hold and force the stream into the flames again.

In spite of their nonchalance men and their crude machinery the firemen's work was not ineffective. No modern equipment could have been taken into the alleys of the burning district, while their tubs and their pumps were easily handled and taken to points of advantage.

The firemen undoubtedly held the flames to the south of the Gyien Gyao street, the main thoroughfare and business street leading from the station to the West Lake district. Their only hope was to confine the fire to the district between the walls.

The sixty-odd houses within this district were completely burned. Because of the early hour of the fire, no lives were lost.

OCEAN BED BENT

(Reuter's Service)

Santiago de Chile, Nov. 13.—It was earthquake and tidal wave combined that effected the destruction. The movement of the latter is described as indicating terrific disturbance of the ocean bed, which caused a great rent through which immense quantities of water were sucked in and culminated in a tremendous recession. The ocean several times swept outward and then returned in the shape of great tidal waves, flooding the seaports and in some cases demolishing the waterfronts and wrecking or driving vessels ashore and leaving them high and dry. The President has ordered immediate relief measures.

London, Nov. 13.—The Chilean earthquake was recorded in

CHINESE POETRY TOPIC OF TALK BY MRS. AYSCOUGH

Fascinating glimpses of the court life of old China, of the doings of the high-born Chinese ladies in their apartments and gardens, of the lines of leading Chinese poets were given before large audience yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Literary Department of the B.W.A. by Mrs. Florence Ayscough.

Mrs. Ayscough's lecture was on "Chinese Poetry" and in her masterly discussion of the subject she brought out the symbolical and mystical in the beautiful verses which a casual reader would fail to understand or thoroughly appreciate. In doing this Mrs. Ayscough explained many of the old customs of the Chinese people and gave vivid descriptions of Chinese life during the days when Peking was a magnificent court city.

Mrs. Ayscough illustrated her talk by frequent readings from the poems in "Fir-Flower Tablets" which she translated from the Chinese and which Miss Amy Lowell arranged.

According to Mrs. Ayscough there has probably never been a people in whose life poetry has played such a large part as it has done, and does, among the Chinese. Mrs. Ayscough believes however that Chinese poetry is made up so much of suggestion and allusion that without a knowledge of the history and customs of and religion of China much of the beauty of the poetry is lost.

The Chinese scholars rank their principal poets in the following order, according to Mrs. Ayscough, placing Tu Fu first, Li T'ai-po second and Po Chu-i third. Mrs. Ayscough gave illustrations from each of these old Chinese masters.

PANCHO VILLA WHIPS WALLACE; IS OUTWEIGHED

Filipino Better Than Patsy In All Departments, Winning Easily

GAVE AWAY SIX POUNDS

American Title Holder Gets In Right With Philly Fans For Showing

Pancho Villa made a triumphal debut in Philadelphia when he defeated Patsy Wallace in a ten round no decision contest at the Olympic Athletic Club on November first.

According to a wireless message received by the s.s. President Mckinley, he won the most popular decision that has been handed down in many years.

The fight was a fierce battle from beginning to end. Wallace with covetous eyes on the American flyweight championship, used all the skill and aggressiveness known to him in an effort to knock out the Filipino early in the fight, but found himself up against a boy that was too clever to let him register over one out of four blows.

Villa boxing like a wild cat, initiated a fight that was so fast and aggressive that Wallace was severely punished, and during the sixth, seventh and eighth was not expected to be able to finish the fight. It was only his nerve and his experience that kept him going.

In the eight he was so tired and exhausted due to the persistent attack of Villa that he had to resort to covering constantly to keep away from the knock out which Villa carries in each hand.

He was completely battered at the end of the fight, and was saved only by the bell. He received a great ovation, however, for the wonderful display of nerve which he showed in even staying in the ring after the sixth round.

During the first few rounds Wallace gave Villa a hard fight, but the Filipino boy lived up to the expectations of his backers and weathered the storm and came back strong.

The referee warned Wallace once for attacking Villa with an open glove. At the end of the contest four thousand fans declared Villa victor.

Pancho weighted in at 110, Wallace refused to weigh saying that he had weighed in at 2:00 p.m. in compliance with the rulings.

Wallace was announced by stadium officials as being 111, but when Paquito alleged that he was at least 116, Patsy declined to deny the statement.

Trainer Whitey, who has charge of the Gym at the stadium said that Villa was a real champion and that he had won the fight by a mile. He is quoted as having said that the Filipino "is one of the best boys of his class that has ever put on a glove."

S'HAI--MANILA GOLF MATCHES START TODAY AT KIANGWAN

Interport Contests To Get Under Way At 10:30 O'clock

PLAN BIG SERIE-

"Jack" George Has Idea For International Championship

The Interport golf match, Shanghai versus Manila, starts at the Kiangwan course today, with a series of 16 hole singles contests to be decided beginning this morning at 10:30 o'clock, and concluding with four ball matches tomorrow. The Manila team consists of only seven men, which apparently will mean that but three four ball matches can be played tomorrow. The scoring will be on the point system, one point for singles and two for doubles.

While but little is known locally of the islanders it is expected that the best of today's matches will be those between J. B. Ferrier, of Shanghai, and J. R. H. Mason, of Manila, and Rev. W. P. Roberts, of Shanghai, and John Grieve, of the visiting players. The two Southerners come here with a very good reputation, and as Messrs. Ferrier and Roberts are capable of shooting in the low seventies these matches should be particularly interesting.

Of even greater interest, however, than the present series, is the suggestion brought to Shanghai by Mr. George, who is managing the visitors' tour, that arrangements are under way looking to a four cornered Far Eastern golf championship series annually, with Shanghai, Hongkong, Manila and Japan contesting for the title. Mr. George explained yesterday that the present trip of the Manila team was arranged in something of a hurry, and that it was the first intention to visit only Hongkong. It was while the matches were in progress there, Mr. George said, that it was determined to suggest a match with the Shanghai club, which was done by cable. The series that starts today is the result.

In February or March, Mr. George said yesterday, the Manila club intends to invite both Shanghai and Hongkong to send teams to the Islands, and he expressed the hope that the Shanghai players would be able to continue their trip to Manila when they go to Hongkong for the regular Interport match.

The Manila representative is confident that there is plenty of golfing talent in the Far East to provide a first class amateur championship series, and believes that but little effort would be required to get such a series started, after which it would become an annual event, which the competitions alternating in the various countries.

Golf is growing rapidly in popularity all over the East, Mr. George pointed out. In Manila, he said, the playing fields were already too small for the number of players, and that condition prevails in Japan to an even greater extent. Hongkong is somewhat better provided with golf accommodations.

At any rate those members of the golfing fraternity here to whom Mr. George broached the idea of Far Eastern championship welcomed the suggestion heartily.

Following their matches at Kiangwan the Manila players will visit the Hungjao links for a friendly game, on Friday, and in the evening they are to be entertaining at dinner at the Shanghai club. They will leave for Manila on Saturday.

IT IS RATHER surprising that the trustees of the Recreation ground, either of their own accord or by acting through the governing committee of the Shanghai Golf club, haven't done something to improve the conditions under which golf is played at the race track course.

Under the present system—or lack of it—practically nothing is done to insure the maximum of pleasure and benefit for the greatest possible number of players at this course. And that, surely, must be the theory upon which the recreation ground is operated.

In the first place the course does not have the care that it should have, for aside from changing the location of the holes on the putting greens occasionally, and cutting the grass on the greens and fairways semi-occasionally, little is done toward keeping the course in condition. And as for improving it, that, apparently, is never thought of.

This, of course, is not said with the idea of being critical. On the contrary it is merely calling attention to what may be described as a continuing oversight.

Perhaps sufficient money is not available for keeping the course in better condition. Well, if this is the case, what would be the harm of charging a moderate fee for playing there? Or, if that is impossible under the terms of the grant, why couldn't the Shanghai Golf club add a new classification to its membership whereby players so electing would have the privilege of playing at the race course only, and be charged a moderate membership fee, the funds thus raised to be devoted to the upkeep of the links? This, of course, is put forth merely as a suggestion, but in view of the deplorable condition of the grounds it surely is one that the Golf Club committee could at least take under consideration.

Not one in a hundred of those who play at the race-track would object to paying a small fee for that privilege, provided the money thus raised were expended for the upkeep and improvement of the course.

AN IMPROVEMENT that is very badly needed at the race track course is a bunker in front of the second green. At present there is a fence there, and on no golf course in the world is a transverse fence a legal hazard. A neat bunker, similar to the one on the eighth green, could be built at that corner of the

Dr. R. S. Ivy Is Re-elected President Of Shanghai Golf Club At Annual Meeting

The annual general meeting of the Shanghai Golf club was held last evening in the pavilion at the Recreation ground, with Capt. Dewar in the chair, vice Dr. Ivy, the club president, who is ill. The members were glad to hear that Dr. Ivy was much improved.

Following the business meeting, at which the club statement of income and expenses was approved, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Ivy, who succeeds himself for another term, and a general committee of eight composed of Messrs. E. E. Bateman, Capt. E. I. M. Barrett, C. T. Beath, H. F. Bell, Capt. J. Dewar, J. B. Ferrier, R. G. MacDonald, and C. W. Porter. The balloting committee will consist of the general committee, and the following: C. W. Atkinson, E. Lester Arnold, E. Brook, H. D. Cooke, Dr. N. L. Downs, P. Enticknap, A. W. MacPhail, R. P. Melhuish, A. P. Nazer, F. M. Neild, J. J. Sheridan and H. B. Woodford.

Following the business meeting and the election of president and committeemen there was a general discussion of many matters of interest to the members, ranging all the way from the height of bunkers at Kiangwan to a new method of determining the championship.

Some of the members were of the opinion that sixteen should be permitted to qualify for the championship, instead of eight, as at present. Others defended the present system, and still others were in favor of dividing the championship into two classes, a Junior and Senior, as at Hungjao, with the low handicap men barred from the Junior, and with the semi-finalists of the Junior to be permitted to enter the Senior. It was reported by one of the Hungjao members present that the latter plan was working out very satisfactorily in that club. It was finally decided to leave the question to the committee for decision.

A suggestion was made that possibly some of the members who do not participate in the championship contests each year decline to enter because of the fact that the matches are held on Sunday, and that it might be possible for the committee to find a way out of this difficulty. After some discussion Capt. Dewar said it might be advisable, at some future time, to consider the question of an open championship, to be held on week days.

Mr. Crewe-Read, who for sixteen years has been a resident of Shanghai, and who has given liberally of his time and effort to make the golf club a success, is soon to leave China, and in recognition of his fine work for the club a handsome pair of field glasses were presented to him by his fellow club members at the meeting yesterday. Mr. Crewe-Read is leaving shortly for Guam.

AMERICANS BEAT KEIO; SCORE IS 6-0; FALK HOMERS

Niita's Spit Ball Effective But Big Leaguers Get Nine Hits

PENNOCK HURLS

Meusel Leads In Batting With Triple And Double; Sharp Fielding

Playing easily and with a world of confidence, Hunter's All-American major league players staged a great demonstration of stellar baseball, made most interesting by their difficulty in solving the mystery of Niita's spitball, at the Shibaura diamond on Saturday afternoon, November 4, defeating the flashy Keio University nine, 6 to 0.

It was a game featured by brilliant fielding on both sides, by wonderful work in the box by both Pennock and Niita and by some lusty swinging of the major league bats.

The Keio players exhibited the game of their life. Before it started they believed themselves defeated by a larger score than 6 to 0; but they fought every inning of the way and with one or two exceptions showed no evidence of stage fright. The infield worked like a clock, a hasty throw and a couple of errors by Harada only marring the afternoon. Kishara at short won applause from the crowds repeatedly and favorable comment from the American team, as did also Yamaoka, in centerfield, whose play was made brilliant by two sensational catches of what appeared to be safe two baggers

Americans Win From Keio Nine; Falk Hits Homer

from the bats of George Kelly and Grimth.

Mr. Charles Beecher Warren, the American Ambassador, threw the first ball.

Pennock pitched a great game with the utmost ease, working smoothly, best in the two pinches that developed, mixing his assortment of curves with a speedy one now and then and allowing the Keio nine to glean only five safeties, while seven men were struck out and the American infield got a horde of easy grounders.

FALK GETS A HOMER

Kirihara got to Pennock for a two-base drive as the game opened, but was later run down between third and home. Hamano grabbed off one of Pennock's curves in the eighth inning sending it into the bleachers for three-bases, but the Boston southpaw gave the runner no chance to get nearer home.

The big leaguers had real trouble in timing Niita's spitter, and the nine hits they clouted him for were strung through seven of the eight innings. Emil Meusel, whose bat was a big power in the last two World series, carried off the batting honors for the Americans with a triple and a double. Falk, the Chicago fielder, made the complete circuit in low after depositing Niita's offering in the seventh over on the club house steps for a homer.

MEUSEL GETS 2 LONG ONES

The Americans counted two runs in the initial frame, one in the fifth, one in the sixth and two more in the seventh. Hunter led off by drawing a walk, going to third when Strunk singled to left field. Falk sent a high fly to deep center, and Hunter scored on the throw-in. Strunk, who had stolen second, went to third and scored when the ball went over Harada. Hunter started off again in the fifth inning with a walk but was caught at second, Doi to Kirihara when Strunk was safe on a fielder's choice. Falk's liner to rightfield fell in Hashimoto's glove, but Meusel sent the next one into the left center bleachers for three bases, scoring Strunk. Kelly followed with a high fly into deep center but Yamaoka made a sensational stab, holding the ball.

Stephenson opened the sixth frame with a single just out of the diamond, went to second on a wild pitch, stole third and scored on a wild throw. Meantime Yamaoka had grabbed another one in deep center, which looked like a sure two-bagger for Grimith. Hunter fanned, and Strunk was out to Okawa, unassisted, when the seventh inning opened. Then Bib Falk picked out one of Niita's spitters for a home run, sending the ball over the fence to the very door of the clubhouse. Meusel hit to center for two bases and trotted home when Kelly placed another double in deep center. Stephenson attempted to place a hit back of second, but Doi was there to receive it.

The speedy Keio infield was working at its best in the fourth and eighth innings. In the fourth period Griffith, Hofman and Pennock sent hot grounders across the dirt which were handled perfectly. The eighth opened with Griffith singling, and it looked as if the Americans were going to score in the final frame. Griffith was advanced when Hofman walked but was caught at third on Pennock's fielder's choice. Hunter flied out to Okawa, and Hofman was caught in a pretty double play, Okawa to Doi.

PENNOCK EQUAL TO PINCH

Keio batted first and Kirihara the flashy little shortstop, leaned on one of Pennock's curves for a line drive down the first base line which rolled out before Meusel arrived, enabling the runner to reach second. Okawa advanced Kirihara with a sacrifice, Stephenson to Kelly. Kirihara attempted to reach home but was run down Hofman to Stephenson to Hofman. With two down Doi singled in the second but went no further as Hashimoto was out Hunter to Kelly. The Keio batting list was retired in one-two-three order during the next three innings save for Takasu's walk in the fourth.

In the sixth Harada lifted a low liner into leftfield for one base and was advanced by Kirihara's sacrifice and Okawa's grounder. With an opportunity to score Harada, Takasu, the Keio captain and heavy hitter, missed three of Pennock's curves which cut the plate. Niita singled in the seventh, but was caught off second, only three men batting during the inning. Keio had another big chance in the eighth frame when with only one man out, Hamano drove the ball [illegible] rightfield bleachers for three bases. Pennock was more than equal to the occasion, and Harada and Kirihara sent weak grounders to him. Okawa and Takasu did the same in the ninth and Yamaoka ended the game by striking out.

Recreation Club's ground without interfering in the least with the Recs' layout. On the contrary it would make a suitable boundary for that part of their field.

The present fence is an outrage in more ways than one, but chiefly in that it "gums up" and congests the play on the course, which is exactly the thing to be guarded against on a public or semi-public golf course, such as this one. Everybody who plays there hits a ball into the fence occasionally, and requires anywhere from one to a dozen shots to get out, thus not only blocking the players behind, but ruining his own game as well. A bunker would provide the necessary "grief" to penalise a poor shot; but it wouldn't needlessly ruin a whole afternoon's sport as this atrocious fence does. The chief purpose of a bunker is to inflict a reasonable penalty for a short or poorly played shot—not to make the playing of hole a physical impossibility.

Another improvement needed at the race course is the presence of an inspector to compel observance of the fundamental rules of golf, since many of those who play there know nothing and care less about the rules of the game, or the rights or feelings of other players. Moreover a set of special rules should be drawn up, as on public golf courses in the home countries, with a view to regulating the play and reducing it to some sort of order. There should be one such rule to prevent beginners from going out there on Saturday or Sunday and blocking the whole procession with their ten foot strokes, frequently accomplished only after ten futile efforts. The park may be free, but surely it isn't the idea of the trustees to interpret "free" as meaning the right of a golfing dub to spoil the day and waste the time of a hundred others while indulging his own craving for misery. No one would think of advocating a rule to bar beginners from the course, but surely no harm would be done by compelling them to play, until such time as they can at least hit a golf ball, when the course is not congested.

The golf club committee could draw up a set of simple rules that would make things at the race track much more enjoyable for all concerned, and by so doing make that large area of the park yield a much larger return of "greatest good to the greatest number," which is the big idea that should govern the operation of any public recreation ground.

All the above is respectfully submitted to the golf club committee.

NANYANG'S PROTEST

Sports Editor: THE CHINA PRESS.

Sir.—Nanyang College stands squarely for clean athletics and strives to instil in the minds of her students the real sportsmanlike spirit. To this end, we have extended invitations to outsiders to share the privilege of our field and our games. We exact nothing more from them than a display of gentlemanly sportsmanship. Indeed that should be the very quality any visiting team ought to show to the young men of the college.

When the "Recs" came to the college grounds we as well as the spectators had reason to expect that they were a team composed of responsible and clean sportsmen. But it was a sore disappointment to all to witness such a low-bred exhibition of sportsmanship by two "Recs" players who resorted to plain thuggery.

The Nanyang football field is not a boxing ring. Such conduct manifested in any other field would have infuriated the mob and caused the offenders to be taken to the hospital in an ambulance. But what was even more low-down and cowardly was the fact that after one "Recs" player had boxed our student and knocked him to the ground, another should have stooped down and continued to deal blows after the poor student had raised his hand for him to desist.

Indeed they should thank their stars that our team, coach, and other student leaders had formed a ring around them and warded off the infuriated mob, else they probably would have never seen the light of day again.

If the conduct of the rest of the "Recs" was excellent, we might have treated the case as individual culprits but the disdainful look and remarks of the "Recs" goal-keeper to a foreign gentleman who is a frequent visitor at the college games seem to indicate otherwise. We must therefore conclude that the "Recs" team is not the kind of team that ought to be allowed to play against the teams of good repute in Shanghai—this as a punishment until such time as they have shown themselves worthy to do so.

For this reason we publicly put on record our protest and our decision to cancel the "Recs" from our athletic schedule, and invite all lovers of clean sports and all athletic associations of Shanghai to support us by taking a similar stand in the interest of clean sportsmanship.

Thanking you for inserting this protest, we are.

Yours Faithfully.
P. T. LU,
President.

Micky Walker Beats Britton In Title Bout

Britton's due to his ring knowledge and experience, but the constant battering which he was receiving from Walker, began to tell upon him in the sixth, and several times during the final rounds he was on the verge of a knockout.

Only his experience saved him from the fatal punch on more than one occasion. During the twelfth, Walker landed three times on Britton's jaw, with blows that it seemed should have knocked out a larger man, but the old warrior just brushed them off as though they were nothing to that old ironside jaw.

In the fourteenth, Britton's eyes were glassy and it was necessary for him to resort to strategy and retreat to be able to stay in the ring with the younger boy, who had by this time gotten into his stride and was raining blows on the other's body.

Jack managed to hold off until his head cleared and then sparred around with Walker until the gong announced the end of the contest and the passing of the welterweight championship of the world and another American defender.

Britton had successfully defended his title against all comers since 1916 when he took the belt away from Kid Graves, and his ring history is one of the cleanest and most enviable of any fighter.

Walker has had his eyes on the Welter crown for some time, and has won it only through persistent efforts, for after having beaten all the others in the class, it took him three hard fights to win from Britton.

He fought the champion two fifteen round bouts and one twelve round go in the past eighteen months last night marking the fourth attempt to wrest the title from the oldest world's champion boxer.

BRYANT WASHBURN and LOIS WILSON
In a scene from "TOO MUCH JOHNSON"

"TOO MUCH JOHNSON"

A scandalous tale of an erring spouse who put the Try in triangle.

But too much mother-in-law spoiled his fun, and his plans petered out.

He sneaked away for a lark, and said his name was Johnson. Then Wife and the real Johnson entered! The rest is a roar of laughter. Pure delight for the ladies . . . a picture for laughing purposes only!

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ¼d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 65½ cents and the London-New York cross rate to 4.47½. The only changes in our official quotations here today were a rise in the Gold Dollar rate to 70¾ a drop in the Franc rate to 1085 and in the Rupee rate to 240¼.

Our market during the morning was steady, business in Sterling being done as high as 3s. 2⅜d. for November-December delivery and in Gold Dollars at 72½ November-December and 72⅝ for forward delivery.

In the afternoon, however, the market eased off, speculators being buyers at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3s. 2⅜d. for any delivery, and of Gold Dollars at 72¼, with buyers at ⅛d. and ⅛ point higher.

Promised Piece-Goods Boom Fails To Materialise; Market Remains Stagnant

(By The Financial Editor)

It is hard to believe, when one had questioned prominent merchants and traders in Shanghai as to the state of trade, that one can find any who are able to work at a profit at present. But this is an indisputable fact, for, judged on the whole, the state of trade in Shanghai is most unsatisfactory. General market conditions have been bad, there is a feeling of uncertainty and nervousness, and it would be a pleasant change to witness a rally.

The hopes that were engendered some months ago about a revival in the piece goods trade in Shanghai have now been nearly dissipated. No increase either of inquiry or demand is discernible from any quarter. The piece goods merchants are extremely pessimistic, and to many the poor state of affairs is rather perplexing. It was expected that with the marketing of the cotton crop in China, business in piece goods would be better, but so far there has been little glimmer of the dawn that was talked about a few months ago.

MANCHESTER GLOOMY

Manchester is taking a gloomy view of the present situation, and this is but natural, seeing that such a large consumer of piece goods such as China, which takes annually on the average one-tenth of the total British exports of piece-goods, has ceased to buy. In the meanwhile, there is no reason to disguise the fact that Shanghai houses, that act as agents for Manchester cotton firms, have been losing ground steadily for several months. The interior centers that are large buyers of piece goods are taking extreme pains to avoid replenishments—and in this they are joined by the local Chinese dealers—except on a scale of price which they can fix for themselves.

All the buying that has gone from Shanghai in recent weeks to Lancashire has been confined to small replacements. If stocks were a drug on the market one could have forgiven the Chinese merchants, but there appears to be pervading a feeling of temerity and nervousness arising from the fact that the country is still unsettled, and merchants have learned from past experience that such conditions are attendant with grave risk.

The needs of the interior are great but they must remain in abeyance except for very pressing needs. The suggestion that, with the approach of Winter, fighting in China would cease and some opportunity be given to trade has been met by most shippers with the comment that no advantage could accrue to trade with life and property being endangered and the peace period in its deleterious effects may be considered a bellum one. To eyes that were lately gazing upon the spectacle of a world war, the quarrels of Chinese Generals may well have seemed insignificant, but it should be remembered that these quarrels have been pursued with increasing fury and destruction of property and pillage and theft of merchandise since 1914.

FORECAST MORE WAR

Already the Chinese dealers in Shanghai are glibly forecasting another rupture and fighting on a big scale next Spring, and in the face of such reports how can buyers be expected to place orders for Spring?

The political disturbances in China are still of sufficient moment to outweight any external considerations. Instances are given of piece-goods firms in Shanghai having gone for days and days without receiving a single inquiry, whereas in normal times they would be giving scores of prices every day.

The poverty of the laborer in China, following upon so many years of unrest, may probably be an additional factor in the restriction of demand for piece-goods, but it is certain that considerably more business could be done under more stable and peaceful conditions.

The cotton trade in England is faced with an extraordinary situation. There is disorganisation and confusion everywhere, and Manchester piece-goods houses find it difficult to get business on a paying basis. Such business as is now going through is at figures which not only do not give the mills any return, but are a long way short of paying expenses in the great majority of cases. Hence it is easy to understand the jeremaid that now and again in recent weeks Sir Charles Macara has been airing, and which Reuter has been cabling to China.

Yesterday we read of a mass meeting of Master Cotton Spinners Association that Sir Charles addressed at Manchester. Not only is there sufficient food for thought in what he stated, but there is no gainsaying the fact that the Lancashire industry is going through another very acute and trying depression.

Sir Charles has been suggesting a Cotton Control Board as a panacea for the present ills. The theory that he has been propounding to his hearers is rather a doubtful one from the point of view of possible success. His contention is that the establishment of this Control Board will put an end to the difficulties of the piece goods merchant of England, and help to put the whole trade on a satisfactory basis.

He added: "We cannot tolerate a situation where the weakest sellers control the markets and keep the industry as a whole making serious losses. It is not foreign competition that we have to fear, it is an internecine competition which is bringing disaster upon us."

Th picture depicted here is obviously very gloomy and the position one that is causing the Lancashire mills to sit up and take notice. Sir Charles Macara in the course of his speech added: "At present we are all being slowly ruined, from the grower to the manufacturer." Not very heartening, after all.

The depression in the piece goods trade appears to be fairly general throughout the East. We have China absolutely declining to resume trading on normal lines, Whatever the cause of the stagnation may be—it is believed to be partly political and partly lack of confidence in values—it is at any rate thoroughly effective.

The secondary outlets off the Far East, Singapore, Penang and Rangoon, are still affected by tightness of money, and are only buying very moderately. Reports are made of India business being offered on one day and withdrawn on the next.

It is difficult to account for the restriction of demand from some of the other consuming countries, such as Java and Singapore, which, according to trade returns, have not been receiving unusually large consignments from England during recent months.

There is no doubt a certain amount of financial stringency in the markets in the East, and Manchester prices are still regarded as being on too high a basis. At the same time it is not easy to see how costs can be substantially reduced in the near future, or even in the distant future, unless cotton values are severely cut and national taxation brought down considerably.

The Nobel Prize

SHANGHAI occupied the limelight of the scientific world for a few fleeting moments during the visit of Prof. Albert Einstein, the famous propounder of the theory of relativity, through the freak of fate that caused the noted mathematician to receive official word that he had been awarded the Nobel prize for Physics for 1921 from the Swedish Consul-General while in the city en route to Japan.

The Albert B. Nobel prizes are given each year to the man or woman who during the year has done the most for physics, chemistry, medicine, literature and peace. The grants are from a fund estimated at $9,000,000 gold bequeathed by Alfred B. Nobel, the Swedish scientist who invented dynamite, upon his death in 1896.

Distribution of the prizes began in 1901 and the first award made in physics was to Roentgen, the German inventor of the X-Ray. Many others of the most famous physicists since that time including Becquerel, who was the first to discover radio-active minerals; the Curies, who gave radium to the world; Prof. Michelson of Chicago, whose latest invention is being used to test the Einstein theory—and others, the mere mention of whose names would be a roll-call of the most remarkable discoverers in the science of physics during the past two decades, have been awarded the prize. Einstein's ward is for 1921, the 1922 award going to Prof. Niels Bohr of Copenhagen for his research work in the structure of atoms.

In the other divisions the Nobel prizes have also given recognition to men whose names are indelibly carved on the rolls of the everlastingly famous—Sir William Ramsay and Mme. Marie Curie in chemistry, Koch, Metchnikoff, Carrel and Krogh in medicine. Bjornson, Kipling, Maeterlinck, Tagore in literature, and Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, M. Bourgeois and Elihu Root for their efforts to secure peace for the world.

The Nobel prizes are truly noble for each year they crown those who have contributed most toward the benefit and improvement of mankind with honors due them. And differing from other honor awards the grant of $40,000 gold to each winner of the prize enables men like Einstein and Prof. Bohr to continue experimenting, studying and doing that scientific investigation to which they are so pre-eminently fitted for the future benefit of the entire world.

The Red Cross Drive

FOR the American community of Shanghai the "roll call" was sounded yesterday—and not only for the American colony was the call issued; but, for all who have the idea of humanitarian service at heart.

The "roll call" is in the nature of an appeal for widened membership of the Red Cross Society, and though the campaign is undertaken by the Shanghai branch of the American organisation, in conjunction with the society in the United States, it is anticipated that other nationals as well will wish to join in membership of this body, which, no matter what flag it functions beneath, has come to occupy the proud position of "The Greatest Mother in the World." In this connection it is significant to record that the first new enrollment registered here was that of Sir Claude Hill, an Englishman, director general of the League of Red Cross Societies, of Paris, who passed through Shanghai a day or so ago en route to the Red Cross Conference to be held in Bangkok, Siam.

During the great war Shanghai rallied in valiant fashion to the call of the various relief organisations operating throughout the lands where Mars held sway. Their support was instrumental in building up the tremendously efficient international corps which brought succor to the wounded and relief to the destitute during that titanic struggle. The aim of the Red Cross today, as outlined by Sir Claude Hill on his visit here, is to perpetuate the efficacy of the organisation built up during the war for service in times of peace. And in this program Shanghai has an opportunity to identify itself equal to that presented while Europe was lurid beneath the torch of battle.

Particularly at this time does the rallying signal sound with significance in this part of the world. At the end of this month representatives of the Red Cross Societies of various nations of the world are meeting at Bangkok to consider means for the betterment of living and health conditions in the Orient. The result of that meeting will undoubtedly be a concentration of Red Cross effort in this part of the world. It follows that the East should lead the field in such an undertaking.

Enrollment in the Red Cross involves only a nominal fee, particulars of which will be found in the news columns. It is the hope of the local branch of the Society to enlist 2,000 new members. There is no reason why that figure should not be more than eclipsed. For every dollar invested in the Red Cross is a dollar invested, not only toward the betterment of the community and country, but toward the peace of the world.

The Credit Plan

BY ALINE MICHAELIS

Some folks insist on dining each day on fancy fare, they go about repining for lobster and caviar. When bills come in, they dread it; it means an awful scene, but they have need of credit to buy a limousine. And silken socks and raiment, these eat the shekels fast, so they defer a payment until long months are past. They want a thing and buy it, that's always been their plan; it's easy, once you try it, to be a "credit fan!" You feel the worth of money when buying things to please, and life seems glad and sunny when saying: "Charge it, please!" But, when the month is over, ah, Brother! there's the rub, for that's when you discover you've been an awful dub. Then letters come, spell-binders, that tax your nerve and grit while reading those reminders, all e l ing "Please remit." And men with dour faces harass you every day: they say: "Get down to cases and tell us when you'll pay." So though no thrill arises from homespun clothes and cash, the boys who get the prizes must always go on cash.

Says Prohibition Makes Everybody Primeval

Paris, Oct. 9.—"Prohibition denies all the result of culture." This is what Cosmo Hamilton has decided after comparing life in Europe with that in the United States since the adoption of the Volstead act. Talking to a correspondent, the author continued: "It is really discouraging and humiliating to be told that all that education has been supposed to bring about through the centuries—such things as self-control and the knowledge of how to live—has been a failure and that you are all ipso facto drunkards and you have got to have drink taken away by law. It makes me mevals of everybody."

MYSELF AND I AT TEA

I love a good party at luncheon or tea
I like with goodfellows to dine.
With appetites hearty and gay raillery
It's all very lovely and fine.

Delightful the chatter of restaurant folks
As victuals and drink they devour,
The hubbub and clatter, the laughter and jokes,
I can listen to it by the hour.

I count it a pleasure, a real rare treat,
To dine as we say en famille.
With bountiful measure of all that's to eat,
And the jolly 'at home' that I feel.

But sometimes, I'd rather be playing the host
To myself, that ubiquitous guest,
With no one to blarney or blather or boast,
At home in my own little nest.

What matter the ration of platter or cup?
I'm as happy as happy can be,
When my hermit collation I nibble and sup
And renew my acquaintance with—me!

Near East Issue Unsettled, Says Expert

BY FREDERICK CUNLIFFE-OWEN, C. B. E.

It would be idle to construe the agreements now in progress of negotiation at Mudania in the light of anything like a permanent settlement of the South European problem which has always been known as "the Eastern Question," and which as such has constituted a positive nightmare to Old World statesmen and Governments for more than a hundred years. No matter what the result of the meeting of the British, French, Italian and Turkish Generals, it will at the best be only a mere armistice and a makeshift.

There is no ground whatsoever for the optimism that has developed within the last few days. And the only subject for congratulation is the fact that the week has come to an end without any actual fighting.

Great Britain will not be satisfied with any mere Turkish promises of the full freedom of the Straits. She has been taught by sorry experience not to content herself with any Ottoman pledges. She had the promise until 1914 that, no matter what happened, the Straits should remain free to the entire world—a solemn treaty promise. Yet, in spite of those promises and treaties, German intrigue got the better of the sympathies and the sense of the gratitude owed by the Turks to Great Britain, and the Straits were closed by the Sublime Porte to England and France at the outset of the great war, with the result that Russia's co-operation with the Entente collapsed, that Rumania was defeated and the great war unduly prolonged, at the cost of enormous loss of life and treasure.

Treaties are made only to be broken. Islam teaches its adherents that no promise made to an unbeliever is binding on the faithful. Hardly any of the pledges given by Turkey in the last half century or more, especially in the matter of good treatment of the Christian races subject to her misrule, have been observed, and Great Britain, according to the statement of Lloyd George, has no intention of according the slightest credence to Ottoman assurances, and is determined to retain absolute control of both sides of the Straits, namely Chanak and Gallipoli, until she can turn over their guardianship to the League of Nations, with the assurance that the League will have the power and the determination to fulfill the trust.

AMERICA'S INTEREST

This complete freedom of the Straits is of almost as much concern to the United States as to Great Britain. For America has now acquired enormous interests on the shores of the Black Sea. Her oil holdings in Rumania and at Batum are extremely important, and there are abundant reasons of an economic character why she should at all times have free access to Odessa, Sebastopol, and other ports of Southern Russia. With the Sublime Porte in charge of the entrance and egress of the Straits, Rumania, Austria and Hungary would, without regard to their sea-borne foreign trade, be completely at her mercy, and at that of any great power that had been clever enough to secure preponderant influence at Constantinople.

The Allies in general, and Great Britain in particular, had originally contemplated abandoning the possession of Thrace to Greece, a country where the Hellenic population is superior to that of any other power, England wanted to keep the Turks out of Europe. That was the keynote of her war and post-bellum policy, a policy which was approved by most of the nations represented at the Congress of Versailles, and assuredly by the American people.

It was Venizelos, then Premier, who was principally instrumental in removing the objections of the various Allies to the award of Thrace to Greece. The only foothold that the Turks were to retain in Europe was the City of Constantinople, subject to international control. But when those carpetbag politicians at Athens, who have from time immemorial been the blight and the curse of Greece, rose against Venizelos, brought back Constantine, who had been dethroned and exiled by the Allies, for the support which he had given to his brother-in-law the Kaiser against them during the great war, and Venizelos was relegated to private life and to the position of an expatriate, Western sympathy for Greece waned and doubts arose as to whether, at any rate under Constantine, she was worthy of being entrusted with the sovereignty of so troublesome a region as Thrace.

Great Britain would have adhered to her original determination of excluding the Turks from European territory, save in the City of Constantinople. But France and Italy had deliberately committed themselves to a restoration of Thrace to Turks, in consideration of advantages of an economic character detrimental to British trade which they have been promised alike by the Angora Government and the Sublime Porte; and inasmuch as their co-operation in depriving the Turks of the control of the Straits was conditional upon the restoration of the sovereignty of Thrace to the Ottoman Empire, Great Britain has reluctantly yielded. But it is by no means certain that the Greeks will leave Thrace quietly. With an army of 50,000 still at their disposal, they may resolve to stay. And England would certainly not lend a hand to expel them, in order to turn over their homes to the Turks.

As stated by Lloyd George the other day, in Thrace there is so much inflammable material, with the rivalries of Turk and Greek, of Bulgarian and Serbian that there is no knowing what may happen. A conflagration started there would spread with fury, and could not be easily extinguished or arrested. It is a portion of Europe full of the most dangerous elements, occupied by antagonistic races, always ready for savage conflict, born of hatred of centuries. As recalled by the British Premier, the Great War of 1914 originated in the Balkans.

So far as we can gather, Great Britain has accomplished her chief aim, in preventing the control of the Straits of the Dardanelles from coming under the control of either the Turks or of their allies, the Muscovite Bolsheviki. She has achieved that by her troops and her naval forces. In the interests of avoiding a break of the Entente, she may allow the Turks to resume a limited form of sovereignty over Thrace, with proper allied safeguards for the Christian population. But that is only conditional upon Kemal keeping clear of the neutral zones on both sides of the Straits. As long as the Turks remain in Thrace, there will be constant danger, however, of conflict between the rival races, and with the neighboring nations, that is to say, with Serbia, Rumania and Greece.

THRACE A TINDER-BOX.

Thrace is in every sense of the word a tinder-box, where at any moment a conflagration may break out, calculated to envelop all of Europe once more in war. No one is more alive to this danger than Premier Lloyd George. But all the nations of the world are war weary, and since there is just one chance in a thousand that any outbreak in Thrace and in the Balkans may be averted, at any rate for the time being, by diplomatic negotiations, Lloyd George considers it incumbent upon Great Britain to take that one chance, unsatisfying, and so nearly hopeless, though it be.

That Venizelos, who was Prime Minister of Greece, and instrumental in 1910 in securing the award of Thrace for his country by the Congress of Versailles, will consent to sign the treaty of its surrender to the Turks, is unlikely to the last degree. True, he has advised the Revolutionary Government at Athens that there is no alternative at the present except to yield in the matter, since the Powers of the Entente have insisted upon the return of the province to the Turks.

But while he will endeavor to do the best he can for his country, as a sort of ambassador "ad latere" abroad, and will place all his influence with the Allied Governments at the service of his country, yet he will leave to the Revolutionary Government at Athens the odium of signing the surrender of Thrace to its former masters and tyrants, and will only join any government that may be formed at Athens after the surrender of the province has been carried into effect. That is also why his colleague and intimate friend M. Politis, Minister of Foreign Affairs in his former administration, has withdrawn his acceptance of a seat in the Revolutionary Cabinet, being determined to hold aloof until Thrace has been given up, and the decks at Athens cleared of the wreckage left there by ex-King Constantine.

One thing at any rate Great Britain—and Great Britain alone—has managed to achieve. That is, to prevent the victory-drunken hordes of Mustapha Pasha Kemal crossing the Straits into Europe, until some sort of guarantee is obtained from them for the protection of the Christian population.

Had they not been held back by the formidable array of British warships commanding the Straits, scenes would have been enacted at Constantinople and in the surrounding regions, which, according to the retired British General Sir Frederick Maurice, now in the Levant and in touch with the Turks—a particular and bitter adversary of Lloyd George, would have made the fires and horrors of the massacre of Smyrna pale by comparison. If thus far the atrocities of Smyrna have not been re-enacted at Stamboul, it has been thanks to the bold front put up by Great Britain.

It is in connection with this that it is well to recall a public utterance of the Turkish Crown Prince Abdul Medjid, now about to be raised to the Sultanate in the place of the present Padishah, Mehmed VI., who, savagely denounced by Kemal on account of his subservience to the Allies, and of his denunciation of the Angora Junta, is about to vacate his throne through involuntary abdication. For Abdul Medjid is on official record as having on one occasion, in March, 1919, expressed himself in favor of a "massacre of all the Christians on the shores of the Bosporus, as a manifestation of Moslem indignation at the presence of the allied military and naval forces in Constantinople, that is to say, the metropolis of the Ottoman Empire."

WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED?

If such were then the openly expressed views of the then heir to the throne, who had every reason to believe that his opinions would be resented and visited with grave consequences by the at that time united Allies, what may be looked for on the part of those Turks who will henceforth regard him as their supreme temporal and religious ruler, and who already appreciate that, owing to the dissensions of the Allies, the latter are powerless to punish them for the rapine and bloodshed at Smyrna, for the destruction of much foreign life and property—the first of the many massacres of Christians by Moslems where English, American, French and Italian officers and sailormen have had to stand by on the wharves and allow Christian natives, men, women and children, to be butchered before their very eyes, without being permitted to interfere in the name of common ordinary humanity?

In conclusion, let me call attention to the following paragraph from a very significant editorial article in the Berlin Germania, one of the most influential organs of the Teutonic press, representing the party of the Center, that is to say, the Catholics and Conservative Democrats. It runs:

"In Germany the success of one of our former allies in the war (Turkey) in smashing link by link the chain of the Treaty of Sevres, which bound it, as the chain of Versailles fetter us, is observed and followed with the most intense satisfaction and interest."

Which means that since the Turks have now shown that they can defy their treaty obligations to the Entente with impunity, there is no longer any reason why Germany should impoverish herself to fulfill her monetary obligations in the way of money promised under the head of reparations, to France, to Belgium and to Great Britain. Indeed, it is doubtful under the circumstances whether the Germans who engineered from Berlin the Anglo movement on Smyrna and on the Straits by way of an experiment, will ever consent to pay another penny piece to France, since they have so little to fear in case of default.

Canton Plans Big Lottery; Purpose Military, Is Fear

(China Press Service)

Canton, Nov. 13.—With a view to securing a fund for the redemption of the paper notes, the value of which has considerably depreciated, the authorities here contemplate the issue of lottery tickets to the amount of ten million dollars. Certain public properties will be allocated as prizes for the winning tickets. All tickets will be sold in silver money.

In view of the fact that only recently a "currency reform loan" of £2,000,000 was concluded between the Canton Government and the Anglo-French China Corporation, professedly to create a reserve for the paper notes in circulation, it is being openly suggested that the proposed issue of the lottery tickets is intended to secure funds for a "certain" military purpose.

Pu Yi's Concubine May Prove Rift In Nuptial Lute

(China Press Service)

Peking, Nov. 13.—In connection with the forthcoming marriage of Pu Yi, ex-Emperor of the defunct Manchu Dynasty, which will take place on December 1, the "Wen Ting" ceremony, that is, the sending of gifts to the bride's home prior to the matrimonial date, was celebrated yesterday.

There was a procession of "ings" or open, sedan-like stands in which Pu Yi's presents to his fiancee were taken to the latter's home. All gifts were covered or wrapped in yellow silk, yellow being the Chinese imperial color. A number of ex-officials and princes of the Manchu household marched behind the "tings."

Gifts were also sent by Pu Yi to his Kweifi or future concubine. There is a report that the latter is a Christian and that that fact has caused some disagreement between Pu Yi and his family regarding the appropriate ritual to be followed in the case of the Kweifi. It is also said that the ex-Imperial household takes exception to the young man's Kweifi being a Christian.

M.P.'s Protesting Cabinet Delay

(China Press Service)

Peking, Nov. 13.—Premier Wang Chung-hui has been much embarrassed by the protest lodged with President Li Yuan-hung by the M. P.'s regarding the latter's delay in referring the personnel of the present Cabinet to Parliament for approval. The Cabinet met in the Presidential Palace yesterday to discuss the reply to the M. P.'s but no decision was reached.

A persistent report states that Parliament has intimated to President Li that it is opposed to the Wang Chung-hui Cabinet and is in favor of Dr. W. W. Yen, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs and Acting Premier, as Dr. Wang's successor.
